PRE TRIP INFORMATION

- The Trip Organizer is responsible for transmitting all pre-trip information to the Trip Participants, including the Wells Gray Adventures Waiver, and information package. Please read all documents provided carefully, they contain information that will help make your trip successful.
- All Trip Participants will be required to agree to the terms of the Wells Gray Adventures Waiver prior to the trip. This waiver must be signed the morning of departure. It is the responsibility of the trip organizer to make this requirement known to trip participants and transmit a copy of the Waiver to all participants prior to the trip.
- The trip organizer will provide a list including all members of the party to Wells Gray Adventures a minimum of 2 weeks prior to the trip departure date. Please notify Wells Gray Adventures immediately of changes to the trip participant list that occur less than 2 weeks before to the trip departure date.

FEES/PAYMENTS

- Wells Gray Adventures guests must have experience in backcountry alpine travel in mountainous, avalanche-prone and glaciated terrain. It is the trip participants' responsibility to learn about the nature and severity of the terrain at Wells Gray Adventures and ensure that they are capable of backcountry travel in such terrain.
- Wells Gray Adventures recommends parties use the services of ACMG recognized guides to help mitigate the risks associated with backcountry travel. If your party wishes to use the services of a guide, please contact us. Any guides operating in Wells Gray Adventures terrain must provide proof of insurance and sign a separate Independent Guide Agreement.
- It is recommended that parties who decline obtaining guiding services review one or all of the following resources, BLBCA's, ACMG Backcountry Planning Brochure & Avalanche Canada's Pre-Trip Planning Course.
- Wells Gray Adventures and its staff may provide weather, snowpack and terrain information to the parties renting the lodge either verbally or in writing. Under no circumstances will any written or verbal information provided by Wells Gray Adventures or its staff be taken to indicate that terrain may be safely used at any given point in time.
- Trip participants are expected to familiarize themselves with the Wells Gray Adventures Rescue Plan.
- Wells Gray Adventures may provide emergency communication equipment; however, it is the responsibility of the trip participants and trip organizer to ensure that this equipment is operational, and that back-up means of communication are available.
- All participants must be equipped with basic avalanche safety equipment, modern avalanche transceiver, shovel and functional probe.
- All trip participants are expected to conduct in a self-directed avalanche safety and rescue skills session upon arrival at the lodge, and prior to venturing into ski terrain.
- Parties must leave a daily trip plan at the lodge before departing each day.
- Parties are responsible for maintaining a call-in schedule each evening after 7pm. Radio on in the morning, but no formal check in.
- Parties are expected to participate in the collection of snowpack and weather observations for inclusion in lodge records.
